A forest fire is raging out of control and the local volunteer fire fighters are drafted in to help. One ancient volunteer fire engine hurtles down a track towards the flames, but the Fire Chief realises that the wagon is too old and dilapidated to be of any help, so he flags it down to stop. To his astonishment, the wagon hurtles past and shoots into the centre of the inferno. The volunteers leap out and manage to extinguish the fire in minutes. The Fire Chief is very impressed. He goes up to the head of the fire crew and gives him a cheque for £10,000. "That's for some new equipment," he says, "if you can fight a fire with that ancient equipment, just think what you can do with some new gear." "Thanks," says the fireman, "but before I buy any new equipment I'll be getting some new brakes for the damn truck."

Thank you for your offerings last weekend that were as follows: Offertory: £261.02
